

MISS MANNERING AND KYRLE BELLEW WIN HIGH FAVOR IN "LADY OF LYONS."

She and Kyrle Bellew
Are Called Before
Curtain as Many as
Ten Times by Enthusiastic Audience.

From seven to ten curtain calls after each act testified to the success of Mary Mannering and Kyrle Bellew's co-star debut in Bulwer-Lytton's perennial "Lady of Lyons" at the Garrick Theatre last night.

Miss Mannering, as Pauline Deschappelles, imparted to the "proud beauty of Lyons" a sweetness and womanly tenderness, hardly borne out by the lines, and in every way bore out the reputation she has won here through "Trelawney" and "Janice Meredith."

Gaude Melnotte has usually been served up in a more or less impulsive fashion by such actors as have become identified with the role. Mr. Bellew, however, showed us a finished, polished lover, who never for an instant lost control of himself or sacrificed finesse to passion. As a Prince he was a success. As a peasant lad he was about as true to life as is a Dresden China shepherdess.

W. H. Thompson was a dignified and impressive M. Deschappelles; Edwin Arden was a gratifyingly villainous Beausant; while Maclyn Arbuckle growled and pounded the floor with his cane in true old-fashioned gruffness as the bluff Damas.

NEW "WILD ROSES."

In "The Wild Roses" at the Knickerbocker Theatre last evening Comedian Eddie Foy introduced a new comic song and dance called "The Chinese Maid," a character novelty calling for a change of dialect with each change of stanza. Other new additions to the party introduced last evening for the first time, were "Pinky Pinkie Pie," a number sung by Miss Evelyn Florence; a trio called "I'll Leave It to the Bear," sung by Louis Bentley, Albert Hart and George Ali; "Gavina," a ballad presented by Neva Armar, and "We Won't Go Home Till Morning," a burlesque on the old song of that name, introduced by June McCree and the twelve "Picture Girls."

SHOWS THAT CONTINUE.

Mrs. Fink, at the Manhattan, began last night her last week in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," than which she has never presented anything more praiseworthy. At the Broadway "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" is nearing the end of its glittering run, and only two weeks remain in which to take the little ones. The last two weeks of "The Importance of Being Earnest" have also begun at the Empire, where this frothy play is a most substantial success. Robert Edson in "Soldiers of Fortune" at the Savoy is not in his last two weeks, and the end of his run is not yet in sight. William Collier, with the clever "Diplomat," filled the Madison Square for the beginning of his fifteenth week. Mrs. Leslie Carter, in "Du Barry," has but two weeks left of her great success at the Criterion. Next season she will be at Biltmore Theatre. Of the merry musical shows "King Dodo" is the newest, and at Daly's it is in high favor with its queer humor. "The Wild Rose," a Letter offering—and that is enough of description—plays at the Knickerbocker in great demand. Rita's "The Show Girl" at Wallack's, opened a third week with a dash of new specialties and some new songs stirred into the well-liked potpourri. Keller, who mystifies all, started in his last week with the Victoria crowded. "The Hall of Fame," at the New York, grows less sedate as it grows older, and no term is put upon its life. Annika Bingham and her excellent company in "A Modern Magdalen" began a last fortnight at the Bijou with a crowded house. "Dolly Varden," who is Lulu Glaser, danced into a new week with a goodly house at the Herald Square, with no end of fussing in sight. "Foxy Grandpa" will play his last jokes on the boys at the Fourteenth Street two weeks from now. Meanwhile the crowds are large. "Quo Vadis," at the Academy, has its youth fairly renewed, so well does it draw.

SHIFTING PLAYS.

With James T. Powers striking as comically as at Daly's and everything else in keeping. "The Messenger Boy" started in on what promised to be a big week at the Grand Opera-House. At the Murray Hill the Donnelly players gave "Forget Me Not," now a new play, with success. Louis Mann and Clara Leeman, as the principal characters in the new play, were successful. At the Harmon Opera-House, repeated their downtown success in "All on Account of Eliza." At the American stand-by, "The Two Orphans," was worthily presented. At the Third Avenue "The Great White Diamond" began a week. "At the Old Cross Roads" started its second week on the stage auspiciously. At the Metropolitan, at the New Star "The Convict's Daughter" was seen anew and in a satisfactory guise.

IN CONTINUOUS SHOWS.

A new troupe of trained bears created a sensation at Keith's, where the prowess of the man who had trained the big brutes to act and to accept a monkey as a clown was much admired. Proctor's Twenty-third Street had Provost and Provost as top-liners in a strong bill for the week. At the Fifth Avenue house the clever "Lord Chumley" was presented effectively by the stock company, while vaudeville made the bill continuous. "The Deacon's Daughter" was the stock bill at the Fifty-eighth street, where the old drama was much applauded. At One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street a dramatic treat was offered in "Larmen," which was excellently staged and vigorously acted. Tony Pastor put forward Foy and Clark and Cook and Sonora as the principals on his week's vaudeville bill and won success. McIntyre and Heath led a successful bill at Hurler & Seamon's.

NIGHT FIRE STIRS HOTEL AND HOMES

The Residents at Fashionable Boarding-House Brought Out in Night Attire, as Are Hotel Folk.

Fire at 2 o'clock this morning was started in the boarding house of Mrs. Mary Vandervoort, at No. 118 West Eighty-second street, by a lace curtain being blown over a gas jet. The house and furniture was damaged to the extent of $1,500.

Incident to the fire the fashionable boarders, not only of Mrs. Vandervoort's, but of the surrounding houses and of the Hotel Endicott, across the street, left their lodgings in their night robes or in hastily assumed costumes, but as there was no danger of a spread of the flames they soon went back to their rooms.

$12-A-WEEK GIRL TO LOSE $17,500 HOUSE

Justice Marian Decides There
Was Fraud in Deal by Which Broker's Stenographer Became a Householder.

Miss Addie M. Bush was unable to convince Justice Marean in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, that she could save enough money on a salary of $12 a week, or earn enough by speculating for four months on an original capital of $100 to buy a $17,500 house.

She was stenographer for the firm of Underwood & Anderson, stockbrokers, which failed for $50,000 two years ago, and thereafter she became owner of the house in Bensonhurst in which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur N. Anderson live.

Justice Marean, after examining Miss Bush, said:
"I am positive that this thing was a fraud. The story passes human credulity. I shall make the judgment of the plaintiff a trust upon this property and grant him costs and a five per cent. extra allowance."
